If you want children to keep their feet on the ground, put some responsibility on their shoulders.
~Abigail Van Buren

Presented in conjunction with the 8th Annual Global Health Form, this exhibition aims to explore the different modes of social responsibility in our society today; the relevance of social responsibility to global health as well as the role art can play within social responsibility. Stone Lobby Student Curators (SLSC) is a student group at the University of Toronto that collaborates with the Centre for International Health (CIH) to organize art events on campus addressing global issues throughout the year with the intention of exploring the links between the Arts and Sciences.
